Houseplant, Cruel, Nutty, Ache, Elated

1 Houseplant (घरेलू पौधा) (Noun) (house·plant) (Neutral)

- Meaning (English): A plant grown indoors for decoration or air quality.

• Use in Non-Fiction (in 100 words):

Houseplants are increasingly recommended in urban living spaces due to their psychological and environmental benefits. Studies indicate that maintaining houseplants can reduce stress, improve air humidity, and enhance concentration. In compact apartments, they offer a low-cost connection to nature. Interior designers often integrate houseplants to soften rigid architectural elements. While they do not replace outdoor greenery, houseplants contribute meaningfully to well-being when chosen and maintained appropriately.

Cruel behavior is examined in ethics, psychology, and law as a marker of moral failure. It differs from negligence because it implies intent.
